

Donna is a Jungian psychotherapist and artist who was born and raised in the southeast United States. She currently resides in Atlanta, GA. For 30 years she has specialized in art therapy and sandplay therapy. She is a registered and board certified art therapist and a licensed clinical social worker. She is a certified sandplay therapist and a teaching member of the International Society for Sandplay Therapy. Simultaneously, she has studied painting, first at Wake Forest University earning a BA in psychology and then at the University of Tennessee where she earned a BFA in 2003. She received an MA in painting at Savannah College of Art & Design specializing in encaustic painting in 2008. A number of her paintings have been published in the Journal of Sandplay Therapy due to their archetypal content. She was showcased to the Atlanta art scene as an emerging artist in 2009 in shows at both Alan Avery Art Company and Bill Lowe Gallery.

For more information on sandplay therapy visit Sandplay Therapists of America's website at www.sandplay.org.